

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A thermokeratoplastic electrode which has a tip that is placed in direct contact with the epithelium layer of the 5 cornea. The electrode is capable of creating very small localized denatured areas that shrink the corneal membrane to correct hyperopic and astigmatic conditions.

10